

What have we learned?

Good morning everyone,

Well, today we have our chance to get back together again. PTL! But remember we will have some systems in place that must be followed to meet government requirements for worship services.

First, we will be limited to only 46 people in the hall. Thanks to those who may miss today to make room for others that would like to attend.

We must do a health questionnaire for everyone who attends. If you feel unwell, please stay at home and watch the video, as it is the same message and the same songs we will use in the live service.

We must make a register of all who attend with associated contact details and then hold on to that record for 30 days.

We have had a professional cleaner clean everything and they will come in after services to do that again.

PLEASE NOTE: Physical distancing must be maintained! I know when Christians get together that hugs and handshakes are a natural thing to do. But, for now that is not possible! I remember when I came home from the US and attended a service and two days later I came down with a fever. I had to get tested and the four-day wait to see if I had COVID-19 was agonising. You do not want to go through that if you get sick early next week!

Having said all that, let's move ahead.

First of all, welcome to those who are attending online. You are our guests, so make yourself at home.

Today, I want to talk about the things we have learned through this shutdown. I know it's not been easy, but it's only in times like this, when we have been pushed out of our normal way of doing things that we learn deep, life changing lessons.

Let's talk about some of those.

He has risen!
